

The A.D.A. came into effect in 1990 and the complex was built after that. Harold Fletcher, one of the architects/engineers on the complex informed that the A.D.A. was in effect but was not enforced when the complex was built. Robert Strow added that a portion of the A.D.A. requirements were cloudy concerning public access areas being handicapped accessible. Judge Miller answered that if someone in a wheelchair was hired at the complex, that needed to go in other areas that were not public access, in order to comply, the doors need to be widened and the bathrooms made handicapped accessible. Ms. Carter informed that Danny Nelson, who is a member of the A.D.A. Committee is working on the amounts per building it would take to bring the buildings into compliance. Judge Miller commended the Committee on a job well done. Ms. Carter informed that the Committee will provide further reports.

I. Lida Hill presented a letter to the Court. Judge Miller read it aloud. Mrs. Hill is opposed to using county tax money to build a park in the Buckhorn Bay area. She added that she felt that the park would probably benefit only a isolated group of people and that the money would be better spent on a county museum.
