Proclamation

Proclaiming October 18, 2021 as Kentucky Women in Agriculture Day

Whereas: There is a growing influence of women who serve as leaders and primary decision makers on Kentucky farms; and

Whereas: Kentucky has over 40,000 female farm operators that make up nearly one-fourth of all farm operations in the state; and

Whereas: Kentucky Women in Agriculture (KWIA) is a non-profit organization dedicated to the professional development of its members; and

Whereas: KWIA strives to prepare females of any age for leadership roles in agriculture and agribusiness at the county, state, and national levels; and

Whereas: 237 Kentuckians are active members of the KWIA organization; and

Whereas: Kentucky Women in Agriculture, Inc. is currently celebrating its 22nd annual conference in Lexington, Kentucky.

Therefore: I, Kevin Neal, Marshall County Judge/Executive, hereby declare that October 18th shall be recognized as Kentucky Women in Agriculture Day in Marshall County.

Given under my hand on this the 12th day of October, 2021.
